

the return of MIGHTY MIKE

Hear that sound? That's the rumblings of Mighty Mike returning to Newport Aquarium (1 Aquarium Way, Newport on the Levee) this month! Mike, the 14-foot, 800-pound American alligator, made such a splash last year, that he's returning for a year-long engagement. Come face-to-face with Mike through the 3-inch acrylic walls as he floats around in his new home or soaks up the sun in a special basking area. Admission to the Newport Aquarium is $23 adults, $15 ages 2 - 12, free ages younger than 2. Call 859-261-7444 or visit newportaquarium.com for more.

join us March 25 at the SUMMER CAMP ADVENTURE FAIR!

Discover what summer camp experiences are all about during the Cincinnati Family and NKY Family Summer Camp Adventure Fair on Sunday, March 25, at Cincinnati Museum Center. Bring the kids so they can explore all the options from overnight residential camps to local summer day camp enrichment programs. Meet with reps from dozens of camps that offer your child experiences in sports, theatre, science and more. The fair takes place from 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. in the Rotunda of Cincinnati Museum Center (1301 Western Ave.). Admission is free, parking is $6. Find out more at cincinnatifamilymagazine.com or nkyfamily.com.

Lego lovers of all ages won't want to miss a three-day expo this month that's all about LEGOS! Head over to the Duke Energy Convention Center (525 Elm St.) for three acres of a hands-on, educational extravaganza. Kids can check out the LEGO model gallery, demos from master builders, games and challenges, group builds, a special LEGO DUPLO just for little ones, and giant construction zones — areas for kids to create and build at will. Five sessions will be held from March 23 - 25. Tickets ($20 adults, $18 children and seniors) are going fast, best to purchase them in advance at legokidsfest.com keep kids safe — and stylin'!

Kroger stores in Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky now offer trendier Medical ID bracelets at the pharmacy counters. Choose from a fun selection from bright rubber, mesh, crystal, beads, and leather from Medical ID Marketplace. Most pieces carry the Medical Alert symbol and can be customized to detail your child's condition or allergy in the event of an emergency. In addition, some jewelry offers TextID — for a small fee, a complete medical profile can be stored in an online account with a PIN number. The number can be engraved on the bracelet so that EMTs can access medical information and emergency contacts. Stop by your local Kroger store to check out the new bracelets, or visit medical-bracelet.com.
