Recession Busters!

Save even more after the holidays!

Love saving cash thanks to the low prices after the holidays? Here are easy ways to save even more!

1 Save with seasonal coupons!
Just because an item is on a super-deep discount after the holidays, doesn't mean you can't save even more! In fact, many retailers often release post-Christmas coupons specifically for products they've already marked down! It's their way of drawing in more customers, and you're the one who can really benefit. Simply pair up clearance items with coupons for super savings! The best places to find these coupons? Check stores' websites, Facebook pages and Twitter accounts.

2 Grab more deals the third week of January!
A recent study reveals that stores offer the biggest discounts during the third week of January as retailers make a last-ditch effort to sell off existing stock to make room for new merchandise that arrives in February. In fact, the only other time of year you'll find prices this low is on Black Friday!

3 Nab returned items for up to 50% off!
January is when stores receive the highest number of returns as folks bring back holiday presents they don't want. This means you'll find the most makes and models of returned computers, TVs, electronic gadgets, appliances and other items for up to half off what they cost new! Worried about how they'll work? Forget it! Nearly all major stores—like Amazon.com, Wal-Mart and Best Buy—offer a warranty on returned items, so you can enjoy the savings without the risk! To check out these discounted returns, visit a website's "outlet" section or a store's "open box" department.

4 Snap up discounted holiday-related items!
This doesn't just mean gift wrap, Christmas cards and ornaments. Stores try to clear the shelves of all types of merchandise used when traveling and entertaining during the holiday season, such as pots, pans, dishes, suitcases, totes, furniture, rugs, platters, curtains and candy! Also deeply discounted: items usually given as gifts (such as electronics, toys, pajamas, DVDs and jewelry) and cold-weather gear (such as sweaters, hoodies, scarves and flannel).

5 Read this before tossing "old" food!
Throw out food because the "use by" or "sell by" date has passed? If so, you're throwing away money, too! A new report from The Natural Resources Defense Council and Harvard's Food Law and Policy Clinic found many of these dates simply indicate when a food is at peak freshness—not that it still can be safely eaten.
